

REBELS STORM RHINE CITY

FORD CHAMPING AT BIT, EAGER FOR 1924 RACE

Doesn't Care Whose Colors He Carries.

By ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—Henry Ford is a serious aspirant to the presidency and is first among equals in the race for a commission of the presidency. He has interviewed him in the last fortnight.

It appears that Mr. Ford would accept nomination by either the Republican or Democratic party with alacrity, and failing to achieve either, would consider nomination by a third party. His decision in the last case would depend on the chances of election. His closest friends, however, believe he would accept any nomination offered because he is a confirmed believer in his star of destiny.

Has Made Appointments.

Mr. Ford, it is learned, has gone so far as to select some members of the staff of assistants he would bring to Washington if he should be elected. He has made promises in various places that he will appoint them. Some of the men to whom these promises have been made are members of the Ford family, including his son, Edsel Ford, who is now in Europe. So far as is known, however, Mr. Ford has not named the offices of the assistants to which he would appoint these assistants.

The plans of the Ford boomers, as announced in Detroit yesterday, have attracted much attention here among the politicians, who already are aware of the situation being carried on by Mr. Ford boomers with both the Republican and Democratic parties.

Question of Party.

Mr. Ford is quoted by Republican leaders as asserting that he is and always has been a Republican, that he is not responsible for his nomination to the senate in 1915 on the Democratic ticket, and that the Republican nomination for president is the only nomination he aspires to.

According to Democratic leaders who have talked with Mr. Ford, he has been a Republican up to 1915, but now considers himself neither a Republican nor a Democrat and would accept either the Republican or the Democratic nomination. Democratic advisers of Mr. Ford think he is the one man who could be relied upon to lead his party to victory next year, and believe that in the event of a deadlock at the convention there would be an excellent chance to put him over as a compromise.

Machine managers have taken alarm.

At the progress of plans to gather in Democratic delegates for Ford in the south where the Detroit wizard is popular in account of his Muscle Shoals project.

There is Ralston's Hat.

Charles A. Ralston, a Democratic national committee member for Indiana, came to Washington today and tossed Senator Ralston's hat into the ring without appearing to do so. This gesture, he accomplished by saying: "I understand Senator Ralston's name of mind and feel altogether safe in saying that he is not a candidate for the nomination and will not be a candidate." Ralston made one of the greatest executive records the country has ever known by taking hold of the state government of Indiana, which had not been out of debt for eighty years, and leaving it out of debt at the expiration of his term, with more than $10,000,000 in the treasury and the state reduced.

"The nation is heavily in debt and the only way to get rid of debt is to get them," Senator Ralston understood the remedy of hard work and has achieved economy, and if the nation is educated up to that kind of executive the people may call him Ralston in regard to his personal aspirations.

Child Falls; Big Surgeons Rally to Help

Surgeons, whose fame has reached to other countries, gathered about a bed in the Parnassus hospital last night and fought to save the life of the 3-year old son of Dr. Anson Cameron, well known children's specialist. The child is a grandson and namesake of Charles A. Stevens, State street merchant.

Fortune twice favored little "Charley" Cameron when, in the afternoon, he plunged from a second story window of his parents' home at 25 East Division street to the cement floor of a sunken alleyway, another fall, story below ground level.

First a window screen, upon which he volplaned to the cement, broke his fall and probably saved him from instant death, although not from a fracture of the skull. The accident occurred at a time when the foremost skull surgeons and brain specialists of America were in Chicago attending a medical congress and ready to lend their skill in saving a son of a professional brother.

Good Chance of Recovery.

As a result, it was announced by Dr. Cameron shortly after midnight that the boy has more than an even chance of recovery, despite the skull fracture and serious bruises, and that the surgeons called into consultation had decided an operation probably will be unnecessary.

It has been the custom to have "Charley" take his afternoon nap in a room on the third floor in which the windows are barred, but yesterday he was placed in a bed on the second floor. He was tied to the bed as a precaution, but managed to extricate himself when he awoke, and without calling his nurse, toddled to the window and climbed upon the sill, evidently to play with a window shade tassel.

Need Surgeons Called.

The news, intimating the family had that he was awake came with his scream as he called out of the window and the thrud of the window screen upon the ceiling. The boy was still clinging the tassel of the window shade, which had been jerked loose and carried with him out of the window.

Chicago After Democratic Convention

With the Republican national convention assured, Chicago is in the field for the Democratic national convention, which New York City a week ago claimed to have safely tucked in.

Chicago's bid will be a strong one, but political leaders and business men who are interested said yesterday.

The undertow of a movement for the convention which has been on for several weeks came to the surface yesterday, when George Hull Porter and John F. Bowman of the Chicago Association of Commerce, called, with reference to the matter, on George Brennan, local Democratic leader and a power in national Democratic politics.

The two men, representing the business interests wanted to know from Mr. Brennan what the local political leaders could do about getting the convention to the city. Mr. Brennan gave immediate answer.

Most Hopes $100,000.

"Financially, we can do nothing," he said. "Politically, perhaps a good deal. About $100,000 will have to be raised to bring the convention here. The local Democratic organization, having a city administration in power, cannot go out and solicit these funds. The business men can and ought to do it."

While the business men are out raising the money, we will take care of the political end and I feel certain we can muster enough strength on the national committee to bring the convention home."

Mr. Brennan also pointed out many advantages to Chicago of having both conventions which will nominate presidential candidates of the major parties. It was said that Mayor Devine is exceedingly anxious to have the convention here and will cooperate in every way possible.

Plan Fund Campaign.

Porter and Bowman assured Mr. Brennan they will at once take steps to start a campaign for the necessary funds. The question will be taken up at a meeting of the convention bureau committee of the Association of Commerce.

"There is no doubt everything possible will be done to get the convention," Mr. Bowman said. "That has been determined upon and Chicago will make a strong bid. The appointment of a committee to handle the matter will be attended to tomorrow."

GERMANY ASKS ALLIES: EASE UP ON REPARATIONS

Details Finances Over Rhine.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.)

PARIS, Oct. 25.—(2:50 a. m.)—The reparations commission will not consider the German note until Friday, owing to the absence of Sir John Bradbury, who rushed to London on instructions from Prime Minister Baldwin and Lord Curzon. It is believed interchanges of views between Quai d'Orsay and Downing street are taking place before a meeting in Hotel Astoria, but the British are determined to break the deadlock on reparations.

SEEK EXTRADITION PAPERS TODAY.

Early this morning Chief Hughes was preparing extradition papers to place before Gov. Len Small, so that Stevens and Hoban may be brought back to Chicago to be arraigned for the double murder. A similar charge is to be placed against McEriane today.

Word came to the detective bureau last night that the two gunmen were hiding in the Hotel Kennedy at Cedar Lake. Two automobiles carrying detectives were immediately dispatched under command of Lieut. John J. Farrell and Sergt. James McCarthy.

The men reached Cedar Lake shortly before midnight. Sergs. Crane, Ryan, Burke, Hackett, Hughes, and White, all armed with shotguns, were ordered to surround the quiet little hotel. The streets were deserted, and not even the local police knew the Chicago detectives were there.

SEARCH AT CEDAR LAKE.

When the place had been surrounded, Lieut. Farrell and Sergt. McCarthy crept to the door. Across the empty lobby, just beyond the clerk's desk, they could discern John Hoban at a card table within a few feet of an open bedroom door. Revolvers drawn, they raced across the floor. Walter Stevens, noted bad man with the trigger, looked up from his hand to stare at the detectives' guns. He swore a dripping oath—and that was all.

"I won't come back; you'll have to extradite me," was all Stevens would say. Hoban refused to talk at all.

The prisoners were taken, each in a separate car, to Crown Point, and the detectives began a vigil about the jail to await the results of the extradition proceedings.

Chief Hughes over the long distance phone ordered the detectives to have Stevens booked as a fugitive from justice and to place additional charges of murder against both men.

Long Sought as Fugitive.

Stevens had been sought ever since he jumped a $10,000 cash bond while the higher courts were reviewing his conviction for the slaying of an Aurora policeman. Before that conviction he had enjoyed a peculiar immunity.

Several months ago Stevens was arrested in connection with the killing of the owner of the Tropical inn, a roadhouse in Miami, Fla. Released on bond, he immediately escaped to Bermuda, and police have been searching for him ever since.

When Meegan and Bucher were slain on Sept. 17—killed with bullets and shotgun slugs as their flyver was crossing Larkin street in Garfield boulevard—detectives immediately looked for Stevens and several other gunmen. The killers had sped away in a green touring car.

Standing outside the hotel at Cedar Lake they found two automobiles, one of which they believe to be the murder car, repainted. They learned that Hoban had been registered at the hotel for several weeks as "William O'Brien" and that Stevens' job had his partner there yesterday afternoon.

Unable to Continue Cash.

For the same reason that it is unable to continue the cash installments, it is unable to reimburse the mine and factory owners who deliver their products to the allies on the reparations account, the note repeats.

The Germans are most anxious to obtain permission for their financial and economic experts to appear before the members of the reparations commission to explain in detail the German situation and also Berlin's view on the Belgian proposals.

This would force the French either to adopt a common attitude with the English, Italian, Japanese and Belgian countries—the Brussels government is entitled to representation because it is directly interested in the affairs—or leave M. Barthou isolated.

Granting Herr Stresemann's request would mean a vital political defeat for M. Poincaré, as it would bring back the reparations commission to life again in the position which the Versailles treaty makers intended—save sign in all reparations questions.

with Bavaria and other states...

The decision of the government means a willingness to return to part in the old constitution, which has been demanded by Bavaria since the adoption of the republican constitution at Weimar.

Means Loosely Bound Federation. The resolution, which may mark the breaking up of the German nation into groups of little states loosely bound together in a federation, says:

"The representative states take the attitude unanimously to aid the government in the conflict between Bavaria and the reich. To avoid similar conflicts in the future, these states are demanding unanimously that the military state of siege be changed as soon as possible into a civil state of siege. With the same limits the chancellor and the representatives of the states hold that it is essential that negotiations be opened on the future form of relations with the states with the object of granting greater independence to them."

Stresemann Agrees to Negotiations. After President Hiebert of Wurtemberg had read the declaration, Herr Stresemann said:

"The government is ready to follow the road of understanding with Bavaria. The government will be ready to open negotiations with the states as soon as possible to discuss the question of greater independence, with the condition that the question of settlement be on a constitutional basis."

He expressed willingness to revoke the state of siege or to change its military character into a civilian character as soon as the situation permits. The Socialists were furious over the decision. They have been demanding immediate action against Bavaria and it is believed that the ministers belonging to their party will withdraw from the cabinet.

Government circles attribute the capitulation to Bavaria to communist activities and the Socialist negotiations with the French for cessation of the Palestine from Bavaria and the setting up of a separate state.

Communist Plot Fails. The Communist attempt to establish workers' republics in Germany failed utterly, but not without extensive losses to both the police and the Reds. The dead and wounded in Hamburg number more than 100. Two were killed and six wounded in Frankfurt.

In Kassel, Bremen, Hamburg and Berlin, the police discovered extensive plots on the part of the Communist protective troops to seize police stations and public buildings. The police surrounded the Communist bands in these cities and they began operations and arrested the leaders. Strikes in many communities have been called.

In Bremen workers in the Vulkan plant organized a proletarian shock troops and seized the factory. They occupied the entrance of the plant while red guards occupied the administration building. The police drove them out this afternoon. A torpedo boat arrived in Bremen tonight and landed patrol to protect the harbor.

Four foot ship coasters were reported killed by the police in Cologne. Socialists leaders supported by France attempted to stop another section from Germany today when they declared a republic in Bavaria. The local parliament refused to join the socialist coup when ordered by Maj. Louis, French representative of the Rhineland commission, to give official approval to the movement.

"Because of the situation in Bavaria, which is so serious that the interests of the people are in danger, the Palatinate must decide for itself some form of a provisional government," Maj. Louis told the Palatinate parliament. "The new state must accept its share of reparations and make payments necessary to fulfill the terms of the Versailles treaty which are necessary for the safety of France."

The decision of the Palatinate to separate from Bavaria was taken after a long conference attended by Burgomaster Kliefoth of Ludwigschafen, former Bavarian Premier Hoffmann, a local lawyer named Wagner, and Gen. Darnel of the French forces. The socialists asked for a stable cur-

GRANTS LINKED WITH $250,000 WERNER ROBBERY

Couple Slain in St. Louis Believed Safeblowers.

Evidence which it is believed, will identify William D. Grant, slain early Tuesday in a St. Louis roadhouse, as one of the acetylene torch burglars who rifled $250,000 worth of registered securities in the Werner Brothers' warehouse at 2119 Broadway ten days ago, was uncovered in Chicago yesterday by the St. Louis and local police.

Both the police and relatives of Grant are agreed upon the theory that he and his wife, Rosa, were shot down for revenge and were not victims of a holdup. Their three slayings, it is believed, merely rifled the roadhouse cash register of $50 to make it appear like a robbery. The fact that Grant carried a large amount of money and his wife wore expensive jewelry, neither of which was touched, bears out the revenge theory.

The Two Theories. The police believe Grant was implicated in the Werner Brothers job and double crossed his accomplices of old savings stamps and bonds evidently stolen in Kansas City and two bank books showing deposits in a Chicago bank.

In addition to these Assistant State's Attorney Jones and Detective Sergeant Goldsmith yesterday brought with them from St. Louis a list of names of some fifteen notorious safe blowers with whom Grant's correspondence showed he had been on friendly terms. Mr. Jones also brought the information that before leaving Chicago Grant had stored a large trunk in Harlan's warehouse at 40th street and Calumet avenue. Lieut. Michael Grady opened the trunk.

Nabbed for Safeblowing. In it he found clippings and letters showing Grant had been under the names of Wilbert and Richard Grant. There was also other data showing that Grant, his wife, then known as "Mrs. Allen," and three other men were arrested at Atlanta in 1914 for a safeblowing job. Grant and the woman turned state's evidence and the other three were sentenced to prison. Recently they completed their terms and were released. Thus, one theory is that these three ex-convicts were the murderers.

Get Lights on Chances. The trunk also yielded other evidence showing that Wilbur Stalnaker, 147 South Trumbull avenue, who was posing as the Grant's chauffeur and who was wounded by the assassin and now lies in a St. Louis hospital under heavy guard, formerly was employed by an acetylene torch manufacturing company here. Stalnaker has confessed Grant was engaged in the home running game and was a victim of a bootlegger's war.

TROTSKY ROARS WAR IF POWERS HURT RHINE REDS

Moscow to Help, if and If—

BY DONALD DAY.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.) (Copyright 1932 by The Chicago Tribune.)

RIGA, Oct. 24.—Any attempt by the European powers to prevent a communist revolution in Germany will be considered provocation sufficient to bring war by Moscow and should any capitalist government move troops against the German communists, a Red army will act in order to defend revolutionary Germany, revolutionary Russia, and a world revolution.

These words are being spoken daily by Leon Trotsky, Leo Kamenoff, M. Zinovief, M. Djelinski, M. Lunacharsky, M. Semashko, and hundreds of other lesser communist officials who are now addressing meetings throughout Russia.

Heavy on Resolutions. M. Trotsky said the more prominent officials are addressing meetings daily where the workers pass resolutions asking the government to take steps to protect the revolutionists in Germany and to those who are in Germany and to those who are in Germany.

At a meeting in Moscow yesterday M. Trotsky reiterated former Kaiser Wilhelm's favorite motto, the best way to keep peace is to prepare for war. M. Trotsky informed his hearers that a revolution in Germany was inevitable and that the enormous responsibilities thus placed on Russia will be met by Moscow.

"We will solve the problem facing us," he said optimistically, continuing that Russia's main duty was to prevent the capitalist nations of Europe from suppressing the German revolt.

Ready to Assist. M. Trotsky concluded by saying that Russia's Red army was ready to assist the German Red army, should the German proletariat be obliged to repel invaders similar to those who are now invading Russia. M. Lunacharsky said that, should any country send troops against the German communists, "we will rise like one man to defend the German right to join the ranks of the world revolution."

COOLIDGE BACKS HARVEY SPEECH ON REPARATIONS

LET A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—Unqualified endorsement was given by the Coolidge administration today to the London speech of Ambassador George Harvey, in which he renewed the offer of the Hughes plan for settling the reparations question, asserted the willingness of President Coolidge to cooperate in a feasible scheme for aiding Europe, and chided European debtor nations for the maintenance of large armies.

Commenting upon the ambassador's address, a high administration spokesman characterized it as "a virtual explanation" of the policies of President Coolidge and those of the late President Harding.

The language used with reference to the maintenance of large armies was even more emphatic than that employed by Ambassador Harvey. The American people have no action. It was declared that this government is going to let governments abroad spend huge sums for armament at our expense.

It is "perfectly futile" to talk of solutions which involve any policy of cancellation of debts to the United States. Neither the President nor the secretary of state, but only congress can deal with such matters. It was declared, and neither in congress nor among the people at large is there any sentiment for cancellation.

This government suggested, and still suggests, an advisory body of international experts to examine the capacity of Germany to pay and make recommendations to the various governments. Though this suggestion has been rejected, the fact for some such plan seems more apparent now than ever.

This government, it was emphasized, has no desire to see Germany escape her just obligations.

President Coolidge and his advisers still adhere strongly to the stand originally taken by this government that it is impossible to link up the question of debts with the American government with the reparations problem.

AND DOPE TO VETERAN BUREAU SCANDAL

Witness Tells of Contract
Bribe and Wild Parties.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Sensational testimony against Charles R. Forbes, former director of the veterans' bureau, involving charges of conspiracy and graft on a scale of dope and rum plots, and drinking orgies with women, was heard by the senate committee investigating the veterans' bureau today. The testimony was given by Elias Mortimer of Philadelphia, agent for construction companies seeking contracts for the building of hospitals for wounded men. Mortimer became very friendly with Col. Forbes and was closely associated with him for several months until they quarreled over personal differences not revealed today.

What Mortimer Told.
The outstanding features of Mortimer's testimony were:

That Forbes entered into a deal with two construction companies, the Thompson-Black company of Chicago and the Hurley-Mason company of Tacoma, Wash., to work contracts aggregating $450,000 for the building of three new hospitals in the west. Forbes' share to be $150,000.

That Forbes proposed a scheme to market 57,000 quarts of liquor and $5,000,000 worth of narcotics belonging to the veterans' bureau, which he said would enable him to "clean up enough to retire for life."

That on one occasion he handed ten $100 bills to Forbes in exchange for a "loan," which was never repaid, and soon thereafter induced Forbes to award him the contract for the construction of a hospital at Fort Belknap, Mont., which was $17,000 higher than the lowest bidder.

That wild drinking parties with women participating were frequently staged by Col. Forbes, parties at which Mortimer, as a visitor to the Pacific coast, one day near Spokane, was induced to participate in a drinking bout which ended in a fight between Forbes and one of the women present.

Will Call Forbes.
The scandal has already reached proportions unequalled in the federal government in recent years, and still further revelations are promised. Senator Walsh (Dem., Mass.), a member of the committee, declared that the testimony "indicated the existence of a conspiracy" which called for the most careful investigation. At the suggestion of Mr. O'Bryan, counsel for the committee, it was decided to invite Col. Forbes to appear early next week and reply to the charges made against him.

Mortimer stated that the profit share plan, upon which Forbes was to receive $150,000 was proposed by C. B. Hurley of the Hurley-Mason company of Tacoma, Wash. Three hospitals, one at Livermore, Cal., one at Alameda, Cal., and one at St. Louis, Mo., were involved in the transaction. Hurley, according to the testimony, proposed to Forbes and Mortimer that profits from the contracts be distributed equally between them. Forbes, according to the testimony, agreed to this proposal.

On one occasion Forbes boasted to Californians that President Harding intended to appoint him secretary of the interior, to succeed Albert B. Fall, and added that if he got this job he would "make a big cleanup."

He also testified to frequent drinking bouts with Forbes and Mortimer at the Thompson-Black company's headquarters in Washington, New York, and Atlantic City, in the course of their negotiations over contracts.

While in the west, he said, Forbes and Hurley arranged a telegraph code to use in carrying on their transactions. A laugh went up in the committee room when it was brought out that Forbes' code name was "McAdoo."

Members of the committee asked Mortimer if he could turn over any papers concerning his testimony. He replied that most of them had been stolen from his apartment, which he said had been broken into three times.

Planned to Sell "Dope."
Turning to the rum and drug selling schemes, Mortimer said Forbes told him he had 57,000 quarts of whiskey and about $5,000,000 worth of drugs, mainly tarantulas, at the Perryville dispensary of the veterans' bureau. He wanted Mortimer to "find a market" for this. According to the witness, Forbes said: "We can clean up enough on this to retire for life."

Mortimer said he refused to take hold of the scheme because about this time he was planning to go to Europe.

WAR STILL MORE HIDEOUS IMPENDS —LLOYD GEORGE

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 24.—[In what will be one of his last public addresses in America David Lloyd George again urged cooperation between Great Britain and the United States for rehabilitation of stricken Europe.

In an interview he declared that even now there was in the making in Europe a conflict more hideous than the late war and one which could be averted if the two great English speaking peoples cast their weight into the balance for peace.

In his address tonight he further developed the theme of his morning talk.

The situation which has developed in Germany, he said, was just what he had expected. But he expressed the opinion that ultimately Germany would pull herself together, just as she did after the Napoleonic wars.

time he began to have serious personal difficulties.

At another time, Forbes told Mortimer, according to the testimony, to get an agency for drugs, explaining that he would soon let some big contracts which would enable them to "clean up a nice pile of money."

He told the committee that he did not enter into this scheme, so Forbes took it up with another man.

Numerous wild parties took place on their western trip, Mortimer testified. He paid the expenses of this trip, amounting to about $5,000. This did not include traveling expenses paid by the government.

On the way west the witness said they stopped at Chicago when during a party at the Drake hotel he gave Forbes ten $100 bills. He asked for a note, he said, but Forbes only laughed.

Tells of Wild Parties.
They were frequently entertained at elaborate private parties along the coast. At a party in Portland on a boat two members jumped overboard. Mortimer said he became disgusted at Eads Lake when Forbes and one of the women in the party jumped into the water, "with all their clothes on."

Scotch and wine were plentiful at these parties, he said.

On one occasion Forbes boasted to Californians that President Harding intended to appoint him secretary of the interior, to succeed Albert B. Fall, and added that if he got this job he would "make a big cleanup."

He also testified to frequent drinking bouts with Forbes and Mortimer at the Thompson-Black company's headquarters in Washington, New York, and Atlantic City, in the course of their negotiations over contracts.

While in the west, he said, Forbes and Hurley arranged a telegraph code to use in carrying on their transactions. A laugh went up in the committee room when it was brought out that Forbes' code name was "McAdoo."

29 FIGHT PASTOR AND N. Y. CHURCH SUSPENDS THEM

Eleven others quit Dr. Straton's flock.

New York, Oct. 24.—[Special.]—Twenty-nine members of the Galvary Baptist church were suspended from the church tonight, charged with conducting "a guerrilla warfare" on the pastor, the Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton, and with violating their vows to support the church.

Eleven other members voluntarily withdrew as a result of differences in which Dr. Straton said "a coterie" of hostile members had attempted to oust him from the pulpit while he was in Europe last summer.

Tail Doesn't Wag Dog.
"No longer may it be said of Galvary church that the tail is wagging the dog," said Dr. Straton when the vote had been taken at a membership business meeting.

The members voted to suspend the twenty-nine without making public their names. No sooner was the suspension ordered than other members demanded that the names of the suspended ones be made public.

"It is my duty as moderator to tell you that the action taken tonight is in full accord with the bylaws of the church," Dr. Straton said. "These suspended members have neglected the church. They have absented themselves for so long that we do not know when we see them. They were brought, I might almost say on bended knees, to come back into the church. But they persisted in conducting guerrilla warfare."

Steam Roller Charged.
Some of the members protested that "steam roller" tactics were being used. To these Dr. Straton said he had no intention of employing such tactics, but action was necessary, as the church could not prosper with warfare within its ranks.

SNOW-MAY TRAIL
GALE ON LAKES,
WARNINGS STATE

Snow may follow a forty mile gale scheduled for the great lakes region, according to storm warnings sent out late last night by the government weather bureau.

The warnings caused lake vessels to batten down their hatches or scurry for port.

Temperatures are scheduled to fall generally today and tonight in the lake region and Mississippi valley.

Members of the committee asked Mortimer if he could turn over any papers concerning his testimony. He replied that most of them had been stolen from his apartment, which he said had been broken into three times.

ELISHA LEE WILL TAKE PENNSY POST WHICH M'CREA HELD

Elishe Lee, who started as a rodmann with the Pennsylvania railroad in 1892, was yesterday appointed to the vice presidency of the railroad's central region, according to dispatches from Philadelphia.

The board of directors named him to succeed Col. James A. McCrea, who died last week. Mr. Lee, who was vice president in charge of the eastern region, will take up his new duties at once, with headquarters in Pittsburgh, Pa.

During the time that the government controlled the railroads he was federal manager of the Pennsylvania lines east of Pittsburgh, and prior to that he was general manager. Large extensions of the railroad's facilities in the central region are being contemplated, the dispatch states.

Earlier in the day, speaking at Nacoma, Senator Underwood blew open the presidential campaign when he said:

"I have come to ask something of you; I have led the Democratic party

UNDERWOOD RAPS COOLIDGE AS DRY LAWBUCK PASSER

Conference of Governors
a Farce, He Says.

Wichita Falls, Tex., Oct. 24.—[By the Associated Press.]—Referring to the conference of governors on the question of law enforcement as a "travesty," Senator Oscar Underwood, candidate for the Democratic nomination for President, tonight said "that in the language of the street" the conference was "passing the buck."

He derided the meeting, saying the President called the governors to ask why they had not enforced the laws, and if they would do so to which the governors replied by asking the President "if he would enforce the law."

Awakes After Four Years.
Four years since a law prohibiting the smuggling of liquor into the country "the present administration has awakened to the fact that somebody is smuggling liquor into the United States and sent for the governors to say they should try and stop it," the senator said.

He declared that the revenue cutters, which were armed and under federal control, should be used to stop the smuggling, and that if necessary they should shoot into the ships violating the laws of the land, regardless of what nation's flag the ship carried.

"That would have happened if the ships had been smuggling tobacco," he said. "But when the ship lays off New York harbor, three miles out, with a cargo of rum, we are still discussing with the British government whether the ship should stay out three miles or twelve miles."

Pries Open His Campaign.
Earlier in the day, speaking at Nacoma, Senator Underwood blew open the presidential campaign when he said:

"I have come to ask something of you; I have led the Democratic party

WALTON BATTLE IN COURT; WRITS FOR BOTH SIDES

Governor Is First to Get Injunction.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Oct. 24.—(By Associated Press.)—With seven counts against him in the impeachment bill being perfected by the lower house of the Oklahoma legislature, Gov. J. C. Walton tonight continued his refusal to recognize the authority of a senate resolution to suspend him from office.

The governor and his opponents both took the case into court for decision. Walton filed in the district court an application for an injunction against Lieut. Gov. M. E. Trapp to restrain him from assuming the duties of the executive office.

Conflicting Writs Issued. Judge Tom G. Chambers, who was appointed to his position by the governor, issued a temporary writ against the lieutenant governor and set tomorrow for the hearing to make it permanent.

Attorney General George F. Short went before the state supreme court with an application for the writ of prohibition to restrain Gov. Walton and Judge Chambers from interfering with the duties of Trapp as acting governor.

A temporary writ was issued and hearings on the question of making it permanent will be held tomorrow. More Charges Approved. Speeding up its consideration of the charges against the governor contained in the report of its committee on investigation and impeachment, the house today approved five articles in the impeachment bill, bringing the total to seven. Every charge thus far considered has been approved by heavy majorities. The governor tonight stands accused of:

Diversion of public funds to his private use.
Prohibiting the convening of a legally ordered grand jury.
Use of his official influence to acquire private credit and property.
Accepting a bribe to approve a legislative bill.

inative bill.
Suspension of the writ of habeas corpus.
Unlawfully preventing a meeting of the state legislature.
Attempting to prevent a special state election in violation of law.

Impeachment Plans Go On.

In the senate plans went forward rapidly for the impeachment trial. With Chief Justice J. T. Johnson of the state supreme court presiding, the senate organized as a court of impeachment and instructed a committee to perfect rules of procedure which are to be passed on tomorrow afternoon.

It was indicated that the senate may at that time set a date for the trial and then adjourn until the house completes its consideration of the remaining charges in the committee draft of the impeachment bill. Under this program, the trial would not commence until all charges were before the senate.

The way for possible criminal action in connection with matters investigated by the house committee was opened today when Representative W. E. Disney of Muskogee, chairman of the committee, announced that all evidence adduced by the committee would be submitted to a district court grand jury.

Walton Breaks Silence. Gov. Walton broke his silence today for the first time since the impeachment proceedings formally were instituted, by declaring in a public statement that he would die officially as he had lived—fighting for order and constitutional government, honestly and fearlessly administered.

Appeals for Righteous Government. The governor charged that W. D. McBeck, speaker of the lower house, had disbursed money reported to have come from the Ku Klux Klan to pay the expenses of members who gathered here to conduct an impeachment investigation of the executive on Sept. 24, only to be dispersed by the state militia acting under the governor's orders.

"No matter what the future holds for me," Gov. Walton concluded, "the principles of righteous government in this controversy mean everything."

Earlier in the day a message from the governor was read in the house asking an inquiry into rumors that a large sum of money now is on deposit in a local bank to be used in influencing the impeachment vote of the legislators.

Signs Ten More Pardons. Ten pardons and one commutation of sentence, signed by Gov. Walton yesterday before the senate passed a resolution suspending him from office, were accepted for filing today by the secretary of state. They include three men convicted of manslaughter.

KLAN'S BOASTED 250,000 SHRINKS TO 75,000 AT DALLAS

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—Dallas today saw the culmination of the long planned effort of the Ku Klux Klan to demonstrate that, so far as the southern part of the United States is concerned, the Klan is supreme.

The hooded organization had published far and wide that between 200,000 and 250,000 masked men from Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma, and other states of the west and southwest would invade Dallas. But it is admitted that those present today would not exceed 75,000.

The fact remains, however, that more klansmen than ever before assembled at one time in any part of the south are tonight in Dallas. They are everywhere. There are thousands in hood and robe and other thousands in ordinary civilian garb, their membership in the Klan disclosed by the little red "100 per cent American" buttons and red ribbons.

The big feature of the day was the appearance at the state fair grounds this afternoon of the imperial wizard, Hiram W. Evans, who delivered a speech. It was the official blast of the Klan, the first detailed statement by the klondom of the things the masked horde stands for, a pronouncement in which Jews, Roman Catholics, and Negroes were grouped as men and women incapable of attaining the "100 per cent American standard."

MAN'S WILL ONLY FIFTH DEVELOPED, DR. MAYO HOLDS

Safety Lies in Control by Unconscious Forces.

Even when he is most awake man is only a quarter conscious of what his body is doing. Three-quarters of the energy created by the food he eats and the air he breathes is spent without his knowing it.

That man's proud brain power had not lifted him as high above the lower animals as he likes to think was what Dr. William J. Mayo of the famous Mayo clinic of Rochester, Minn., had to tell the convention of the American College of Surgeons last night.

Power of reason has so far only reached a quarter of the order forms of unconscious nervous control, he estimated. Man's will power is only 25 per cent efficient. Certain often-misunderstood ailments result from the clash between the conscious mind attempts to gain control over the unconscious, or, as Dr. Mayo termed them, the vegetative functions.

Muscles Beyond Will's Control. "Certain muscles of the body called involuntary—or not striped with rhythmic markings—are among the most interesting and important tissues of the body," Dr. Mayo said. "These muscles are the earliest connected in evolution and they are endowed with a curious type of self-control possessed by few, perhaps by no other, tissues in the body."

Man may think as hard as he wishes, but he cannot think his stomach into taking proper care of the food he eats. The process of digestion is controlled by these same involuntary or involuntary muscles.

"The food passing into the esophagus is beyond the control of the will," the speaker declared. "The manner in which it is passed through the digestive system is controlled by eight nerve-muscle stations which act like the block system of a railway."

Small Intestine Healthier. "Diseases of the small intestine are rare compared with those of the stomach and large intestine," said Dr. Mayo. "We can safely say that the vegetative or unconscious functions, being older, are more stable and better organized than the more recently acquired central nervous system."

The more recently developed central nervous system of which the brain and spinal cord form the main trunk line is subject to the many emotional influences spoken of as psychic, Dr. Mayo said.

It is when these influences get so strong that they flood over and try to control the already smoothly running vegetative system that troubles occur. "Disturbances which more or less resemble real diseases are caused," the speaker said. "The trained observer knows them to be false, but the unlighted patient accepts them as true. Herein lies the success of the

NOTES OF SURGEONS

And the quackeries who play these 'diseases' for the real thing and reap a harvest.

Defends the Flatfooted.

Dr. Joseph E. Root of Hartford, Conn., is proud of the fact that his work begins at the ground.

"It is an exploded theory," he says, "that people with low arches can never make good walkers. The doughboy in the war proved that. Unless the bones of the foot have fallen so far that feet actually 'pony' in, the persons with flat feet are in most cases as good as any."

Obstetrics in Big Advance.

"Give the babies a chance," was the plea presented by Dr. J. D. Clark of Wichita, Kas., an obstetrician. "Formerly it was thought enough if the doctor brought the mother through childbirth successfully. With further refinement of technique, the obstetrician is not satisfied unless he brings the baby into the world healthy and unharmed."

Prof. Hans Finster, Viennese authority on gastric surgery, visited clinics yesterday and witnessed many scientific experiments on animals. He was amazed at the use of dogs. "We cannot use them in Vienna," he explained. "Dogs are too expensive right now."

Plans for the proposed Gorgas memorial institute, to be maintained in Panama by a $5,000,000 endowment fund, were discussed yesterday by Dr. R. W. Runyan and Dr. J. J. Vallinon of Panama City. The institute, the doctors explained, is the idea of the Panamanian government, as a monument to the work done in the tropics by Gen. William Crawford Gorgas, the Redeemer of the Tropics.

Dr. Valdes, distinguished Mexican surgeon attending the congress, yesterday presented Dr. William J. Mayo and Dr. Albert J. Ochsner with honorary diplomas from the Mexican Academy of Medicine.

Make children self-supporting citizens of health, urges Miss Jeanne Brown of Toronto, head of the Junior Red Cross of Canada. "Don't make a child healthy. Teach him and inspire in him to make himself healthy. Then it will become a habit, not a task."

In a final session of the congress of anesthetists the following officers were elected: Dr. W. I. Jones, Columbus, president; Dr. John H. Evans, Buffalo, and Dr. A. F. Guedel, Indianapolis, vice presidents; Dr. L. E. McMechan, Avon Lake, O., executive secretary; Dr. M. I. McKesson, Toledo, chairman of the board of directors.

PUNCTURE SPINE NOW TO RELIEVE SKULL FRACTURE

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES.

If an automobile knocks you down and cracks open your skull, don't let the doctor gouge out a piece of your head. Make him puncture your spine.

This new theory of "lumber puncture" treatment of a cracked or fractured skull was demonstrated yesterday at Cook county hospital in a series of clinical operations performed in an amphitheater jammed with renowned surgeons from all parts of the world. For yesterday was clinic visiting day for the 3,000 fellows of the American College of Surgeons now in conference at the Congress hotel. They visited 137 local surgeons in forty-nine hospitals.

For every person in Chicago killed by an automobile, the doctors were informed, there are twenty who are hurt. Many of them are brought to the county hospital, where the new treatment is given with gratifying results it was explained.

Relieves Congested State.

Twenty per cent of the head cases, according to local data, are injuries to the medulla, in most cases immediately fatal. The other 80 per cent involve, to a large extent, cracks in the skull, and bruises to the brain. Under these conditions the cerebral fluid is congested, and unable to find an outlet. Excessive pressure on the brain results, with a corresponding deadening of cerebral cells touched.

This pressure, which is high for the first few days under the old treatment of head operations. In many cases, Dr. Tarnowsky pointed out, no treatment of the skull fracture was possible, and the brain never returned to normal.

Scientifically iodized, it is an internal antiseptic as well as a lubricant.

Pure mineral oil is fine for constipation, within certain limits. But it lacks one important essential. It is powerless to neutralize poisons in the intestine, an after-effect of constipation. Now science has remedied this lack. In McKenzie's Antiseptic Mineral Oil. It is iodized, a new discovery. Doctors now prescribe it for young and old.

McKenzie's is simply purest liquid petroleum, combined with active germ-killing properties. No other oil is like it. It passes unabsorbed through the stomach, cleanses the bowels gently and thoroughly, heals and soothes the sensitive membranes of the intestine, and counteracts germs and intestinal poisons. If you are taking ordinary mineral oil, try McKenzie's and see the difference.

The lumber puncture treatment prescribes immediate puncture of the spinal column, just below the cord. The cerebral fluid in the spinal column is drained into a tube. The mixture of blood in the fluid is noted. By a special apparatus, attached to the needle, the pressure of this fluid on the brain is recorded. At the conclusion of a treatment this pressure is noticeably lessened.

"FEVER AID TO SICK"

Fever, in a sick patient, instead of being something to be afraid of, is something to be thankful for, because it indicates a healthy condition of the body. Dr. George Dr. Tarnowsky, professor of surgery at Loyola university, declared last night in an address before the Chicago Medical society.

"Fever itself is one of nature's best protective forces," Dr. Tarnowsky said. "It indicates that the body is putting up a good fight against any infection which may be attacking it. The heat generated by the fever is sufficient to stop the work of the bacteria."

If a person is sick and has no fever, he is in a much worse condition than if he ran a high temperature, Dr. Tarnowsky asserted. If there were no fever present it would indicate that the system was run down and incapable of counteracting the disease.

Dr. Tarnowsky urged the physicians not to give patients medicines which would reduce the fever, but to regard it as an assistant in combating disease.

FOELL, HOPKINS, AND COOK LEAD IN LAWYERS' VOTE

Second Association O K's on Sitting Judges.

Results of the open primary of the Lawyers' Association of Illinois were made known last night and were practically a confirmation of the opinion of the Chicago Bar association about the party candidates for judges of the superior court and the two vacancies on the Circuit bench.

The two associations agreed upon nomination of the twenty candidates for full term seats on the Superior bench, William J. Lindsay, a Democrat, crowded off Marvin E. Barnhart, also a Democrat, in the Lawyers' association primary, running nineteenth. He was twenty-third in the Bar association primary.

Barnhart Drops Down.
Barnhart, eighteenth on the Bar association list, ran twenty-second in the Lawyers' association primary. Judge Charles M. Foell led the ticket in the Lawyers' association primary, as he did in the Bar association vote. All the sitting judges were approved, as were all sitting Municipal court judges and all former judges, except Zeman and Hazen, both Republicans, who ran far down.

Here's How They Ran.

The result of the Lawyers' association primary follows:

Full term—20 to be elected.
Judge Charles M. Foell, Rep.	1,380
Judge Jacob H. Hopkins, Dem.	1,323

HIS HABITS WERE GOOD, BUT BANK IS $8,000 SHORT

George A. Preble, whose reputation in private life was that of the fabled model young man, who didn't drink, chew, smoke nor swear, has become entangled in his books at the West Town State bank, Madison and Western avenues, and the bank is willing to pay $2,500 for his arrest on charges of embezzlement.

Announcement of the reward was made yesterday when bank officials explained that Preble walked out of the bank Tuesday when a bank examiner walked in, stepped into his new sedan and hasn't been seen since by his employers or by his wife and seven children at his home, 2707 North Troy street.

Bank examiners refused to estimate the defalcations charged against Preble, but it was understood that they totaled some $5,000. The bank has $50,000 in undivided profits and $100,000 in surplus.

The only times Preble was away from home, according to his wife, were when he went out once a week to a bowling alley.

CONTEMPT CASE SNARES ANOTHER SMALL ADHERENT

Contempt proceedings were begun yesterday against Patrick H. Moynihan, a member of the Illinois bar, a police commissioner and of Gov. Small's official family. The special grand jury which is investigating the $2,500,000 fees paid to five Thompson-Landin experts reported to Chief Justice John R. Chiverly of the Criminal court that Moynihan had disregarded a subpoena in that, while he had responded to it, he had not waited to be called as a witness.

Moynihan and Percy B. Coffin, who also is a subordinate of Gov. Small, can tell how some of the $2,500,000 was diverted from the "experts" to the politicians, the grand jurors say.

It developed during the day that Edward Wright, colored politician, at one time an assistant to former Corporation Counsel Samuel Eitelson, received $1,000 of the fees drawn by Ernest Ernest H. Lyons.

Who Is Educated?

Here in the United States we take justifiable pride in the quick action following quick thinking that is characteristic of our countrymen and of our Northern neighbors.

But sometimes slow thinking after quick action suggests that a little slow thinking preceding action might have been of value. Nations, like men, should become more conservative and more tolerant as they advance in age.

About all education can do for any man is to give him a glimpse of things other men have thought about and to teach him to think for himself. Upon the extent of that glimpse and the three dimensions of his thought depends the degree of his education.

Many young men who have been exposed to education in colleges and universities, even to the extent of acquiring degrees, have escaped almost unscathed.

And so it is even in the humdrum of everyday affairs—the man who thinks gets the best values in exchange for his time, his energy, his money.

STOKES'EVIDENCE IS HIT HARD BY NEW WITNESSES

His Wife's Double Plays Part in Divorce Suit.

New York, Oct. 24.—[Special.] Mrs. Howland Pell, wife of a New York stock exchange member, testifies at the Stokes divorce trial by the supreme court today that as Mrs. Margaret Wynn she had attended two week-end parties in 1914 or 1915 at the home of W. Leon Pepperman, vice president and treasurer of the Interborough Rapid Transit company at Throgs Neck, Conn.

Mrs. Pell's resemblance to Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes is striking. She denied, moreover, that Mrs. Stokes had ever visited Pepperman's summer cottage, to her knowledge. Negro witnesses for Stokes had testified seeing a "Mrs. Wynn" at Bethel, who, they said, was described to them as Mrs. Stokes.

Contradict Stokes' Witnesses.

Further evidence introduced by Samuel Untermyer, for Mrs. Stokes today, contradicted much of the testimony given by the plaintiff's witnesses regarding Mrs. Stokes' intimacy with Mr. Pepperman. Clarence K. McCormick, an old promoter, and Henry H. Waugh of the Interborough's publicity department. These men, themselves, refuted the other's statements.

The last witness was Stanley Rich, Mr. Untermyer's son-in-law. He regulated the testimony of Joseph Thornton, former janitor of 11 East 25th street, where Edgar L. Wallace lived, concerning his visit to the district attorney's office shortly after he testified at the first trial of the Stokes suit.

Mrs. Pell, whom spectators in the courtroom described as "the image of Mrs. Stokes" even unto her golden hair, said she was Margaret Wynn, a widow, when she married Mr. Pell in 1919. In the summer, eight or nine years ago, she said she and Mr. Pell were guests of Mr. Pepperman. She said, but begged to be excused from bringing in any more names. She was not pressed.

Denies She Ever Saw Mrs. Stokes.

Mr. Untermyer asked Mrs. Stokes rise, and asked the witness if she had ever seen her before. She replied the negative and volunteered that Wallace was also unknown to her. During cross-examination, Max D. Stone, Stokes' lawyer, showed her a number of photographs and asked if the witness had ever met any of them. She said she had not.

Pepperman admitted having last visit his former apartment at 244 56 avenue and his Bethel home, but said that Mrs. Stokes had never been there. The only time he had seen Mrs. Stokes, he said, was on a "trolley" picnic in 1907 or 1908. He denied ever having sent letters to her at the Ansonia or any other place, considering the testimony of Amelia Epps, former messenger for the Interborough.

The last witness was Stanley Richman, Mr. Untermyer's son-in-law. He repudiated the testimony of Joseph Thornton, former janitor of 13 East 15th street, where Edgar T. Wallace lived, concerning his visit to the district attorney's office shortly after he testified at the first trial of the Stokes suit.

Mrs. Pell, whom spectators in the courtroom described as "the image of Mrs. Stokes" even unto her golden hair, said she was Margaret Wynn, a widow, when she married Mr. Pell in 1915. During cross-examination, Max D. Steuer, Stokes' lawyer, showed her a number of photographs and asked if the witness had ever met for any. She said she had not.

Pepperman admitted having ladies visit his former apartment at 254 5th avenue and his Bethel home, but said that Mrs. Stokes had never been there. The only time he had seen Mrs. Stokes, he said, was on a "trolley car picnic" in 1907 or 1908. FALL TESTIFIES OF HIS DEALINGS WITH SINCLAIR

Received No Pay for Trip, He Says.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—Testifying today at the senate committee's investigation of the losses of the Teapot Dome, naval oil reserve to the Harry F. Sinclair interests, former Secretary A. H. Fall of the interior or department told of his business relations with Sinclair since his resignation from the cabinet last spring. The Teapot Dome contract was negotiated for the government by Mr. Fall and Secretary Denby of the navy department.

About the time of his retirement, Mr. Fall said, Mr. Sinclair consulted with him regarding a contract for oil development in China. In that connection, he added, he made a trip to London for conferences on the subject. For his services, the committee was told, he received no compensation, but was paid $10,000 for expenses.

No Further Relations.
Replying to questions, he said he also had advised L. L. Doheney of the Pan-American Oil company regarding business matters, but had received no compensation. Mr. Fall continued:

"I will accept employment from Mr. Sinclair, Mr. Doheney, or any one else as I see fit. I expect to form a connection with one of the oil interests named, or with a coal interest, a transportation interest, or a syndicate interested in railroads in this country. Offers have been made me by such interests, but none have been accepted."

Caused Stock Flurry.
When Senator Walsh, Democrat of Montana, criticized Mr. Fall for withholding for two weeks public announcement of the signing, April 7, 1922, of the Teapot Dome contract, during which time, the senator declared, Sinclair stocks were dealt in on the New York exchange to the extent of $20,000,000, the former secretary insisted upon making a statement.

"I am aware that my reticence in this matter may have justified some criticism," he declared, "but I have no apology to make. I considered the lease a part of the military policy of this government and left it to the President or the secretary of the navy to make any announcement they thought proper."

Widow of Judge Walker Leaves $65,000 to Children

Mrs. Harriett W. Walker, widow of Judge Charles Walker, left an estate of $65,000, to be divided equally among four children, according to her will, filed for probate yesterday. The heirs are Amy Walker Field, 1442 Kenwood avenue; Carolyn Walker, Harriett W. Welling, 920 North Michigan avenue, and Charles M. Walker, 31 East Elm street.

CASHIER FILCHES $7,000 TO PAY BRIDGE LOSSES

"Friendly" bridge games in which Miss Inga M. Troll, for fifteen years trusted cashier of the J. B. Moore company, tobacco dealers, indulged at the home of her various friends landed her in a police cell last night on a charge of having embezzled $7,000 of her employers' money.

The accusations, which covered a period of two years, were made by pocketing cashes owed from sales and neglecting to post the cash slips in the books.

"Yes, I took the money," said the cashier who resides at 1445 Cuyler avenue. "Just during September, I must have taken $1,000. Bridge caused it. You know how it is, if you're a bridge fan. I'd drop around to a friend's house, a few rubbers would be suggested and, of course, it's always more interesting to play for money. I kept thinking I could win, but the cards were against me."

"I started at $10 a week with the firm fifteen years ago and I was only getting $27 a week. I'm 39 years old and unmarried. That's not much of a salary at my age, and I thought I could help out a little with bridge. But the deeper I got into debt the more I wagered and the worse my luck became."

An audit of the company's books shows, according to her employers, that her bridge playing cost them $7,000. Miss Troll refused to reveal names of winners of the money. H. A. Schuchat, an official of the company, signed the complaint.

CHILD GIVES UP LIFE TO SAVE DOLL FROM FIRE

Aurora, Ill., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—Two year old Betty Jane Williams followed her mother out of their burning home today, then remembered her doll and turned back. Her body was found in the ruins by the firemen.

Betty Jane's mother, Mrs. E. P. Williams, whose husband is employed at the Moose national headquarters in Mooseheart, had fled with three small children in her arms. She did not know until she reached the street that Betty Jane, who had been following at her heels, had turned back.

"I started at $10 a week with the firm fifteen years ago and I was only getting $27 a week. I'm 39 years old and unmarried. That's not much of a salary at my age, and I thought I could help out a little with bridge. But the deeper I got into debt the more I wagered and the worse my luck became."

Is Your Wife Competent to Manage Your Affairs?

Some men make the mistake of leaving their estates in the hands of inexperienced persons—without reservations.

Few wives are experienced in matters of investment and business. And many estates thus dwindle away.

The only man justified in not leaving his estate in the hands of a Trust Company as executor, is the man whose wife is thoroughly familiar with his affairs and just as competent to manage them as he himself. And even then he is taking a chance.

The right way is to see your lawyer. Then make a will, appointing this Trust Company executor and trustee. That means real protection.

Our trust officers will gladly confer with your attorney and yourself any time you wish.

BEAVERS WILL MAKE THEIR OWN HOME IN NEW ZOO

BY RICHARD HENRY LITTLE.

There's going to be a big colony of beaver in the new zoo out along the Des Plaines.

It's a pity we haven't got a lot of beavers in Chicago right now. Beavers are all hard workers; they look forward and prepare for the future and they love the great outdoors. The beaver interviewed by the Inquirer Reporter would each and every one of them vote for the new zoo.

Yes, I will vote for the new zoo, said one beaver. Then children and everybody else won't have to go into the wilderness to see me. They can come right out to the forest preserve and I'll be there shushing around in a lake. We beavers made all ourselves and they can see us cutting down trees and floating them down to our new dam and building our own houses and everything. Am I against the new zoo? As a beaver I wish to say not by a long way.

They'd Vote for It.

I would vote for the new zoo if it wasn't going to have any animals in it but beavers. Out there in the forest preserve in the Des Plaines valley there is just the kind of country that the beaver love and there this smart set of all dumb animals can show off to his heart's content. Beavers are clever. I learned that out in Yellowstone park.

We'll first hear what Dr. Hornaday says about the beaver. "The Manners and Customs of Wild Animals."

How Gotham Solved Its Problem.

Dr. Hornaday says that they wanted a dam, big beaver dam in the New York zoo for the visitors to see, but they didn't want their workmen to build it. They wanted the beavers to do it themselves.

So Dr. Hornaday wisely decided to let the beavers build their own dam. Then they would be spending their own time and money and not the tax-payers'. The only trouble was that Dr. Hornaday wanted the dam in a certain place and he was afraid that the beavers might want it in another. So they put a twelve inch plank across the site of the future dam as a little hint to the beavers that the dam should be built right there.

A Gentle Hint.

The next morning Dr. Hornaday found a curtain of sticks and fresh mud plastered against the iron fence.

Gray Hair a Sign Post of Age

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantage of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it turns gray and looks faded, but a few applications of Sage and Sulphur Compound in appearance transformed.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyn's Sage and Sulphur Compound" which is merely an old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of hair restorers recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it dyes the hair beautifully; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it dyes so naturally and evenly. You mix in a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, the natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

that crossed the creek thirty feet farther down the stream than the place the doctor had picked out for the dam. The sticks and mud were carefully taken away as a gentle hint to the beavers that they could not use the iron fence as the foundation of their dam. The next morning the iron fence was again found to be plastered with sticks and mud. Once more the work of the stubborn beavers was torn down.

The third morning when Dr. Hornaday looked at the iron fence he found no mud or sticks against it. But a couple of carloads of dam material had been placed over the twelve inch plank.

So, Dr. Hornaday says, the beaver built a beautiful watertight dam precisely where he had suggested it to them.

Smarter Than Humans.

The guide out in Yellowstone park was even more enthusiastic about beavers than Dr. Hornaday. This guide admitted that while guides generally were given to exaggeration when talking about the wild animals in the park, he was always careful to tell the simple truth. He showed us a great dam that had been built by the beavers and the dam was quite a long way from the lake and the canal the beavers had dug from the woods to the site of their dam, down which they floated heavy logs to form the dam.

"Yesir," said the guide, "them beavers are lot smarter than humans. Look at that there dam; see how it's strengthened in the middle where the greatest pressure of the water in the lake comes against it. Look at the spillways the beavers built on each side so as to keep the water just the level they want it. Look how they pointed the logs they drove down in the mud and see how they wove the branches and twigs in and out to make the wall. "Tell me that beavers don't think! More than that, they have to study. Men couldn't build a wall like that without studying, could they? Well, no more could beavers."

The Guide Goes On.

"Yesir," said the guide, "these here beavers have a regular school. They're kinda fitted by nature for school teachin', too. Take that big flat tail a beaver's got. Ordinarily he uses it like a trowel for plastering mud in the chinks of his dam. But when a old beaver is teachin' school he uses that big, flat tail of his to spank the little beavers with and he does spank 'em hard, too."

"There was some college students that a camp near here," said the guide, "and the boys played football. Well, sir, darned if them beavers didn't gnaw out a piece of light pine just the shape of a football and the next time I saw 'em they had two teams and they was playing as pretty a game of football as I ever saw."

"Every time one side would get the ball down the field all the beavers looking on would slap their tails right hard on the ground. I didn't know what they were doing that for, but after a while I found out that was the way they give their college yell."

I certainly want to see a colony of beaver out in the larkless zoo.

CROWE EYES GUN TOTING PHASE OF CONSTABULARY

Evidence that "gun totin'" licenses are being sold by at least one Cook county justice of the peace at from $2 to $25 to any one who can "furnish references from two residents" was received yesterday by State's Attorney Crowe.

As a result, the state's attorney plans an investigation of the $2,000 or more members of the department of constabulary, many of whom are said to be carrying concealed weapons on the strength of justice's licenses.

Detective Sergeant Joseph White, sent to the headquarters of the department during the day, said he saw four men sign, pay for, and receive "gun totin'" licenses within two hours. The permits were signed by a justice living in Oak Forest, Whitehead reported.

Checks Blazer's Story.

The detective had been ordered to check up on the story told by George T. Philbois on the witness stand before Judge Harry Lewis on Tuesday to the effect that he had killed Spero Rodakos, owner of a restaurant at 4425 Ravenswood avenue, with a revolver carried under a permit given him as a member of the constabulary.

"I found Philbois' story was correct," said Sgt. Whitehead. "Hundreds of others are carrying guns."

While I was in the constabulary headquarters four men asked to become members. After signing various papers, they were told to get two men to vouch for their character. They returned with the testimonials and were given gun permits by a justice standing nearby. Each paid a fee and went in search of a gun.

Crowe Aids Hear Charges.

Sgt. Whitehead's story was repeated to Assistant State's Attorney John Sharbaro, who will open the constabulary investigation. It was pointed out several days ago, in a report to State's Attorney Crowe, that the hands of the authorities are tied by state laws allowing justices to grant permits.

Assistant State's Attorney Samuel Hamilton and Robert O'Connell closed their case against Philbois late in the afternoon and the jury retired to deliberate. At 10 o'clock Judge Harry Lewis ordered the jurors locked up for the night. It was reported they stood 10 to 2 for conviction.

AMERICA BOUND BY PATERNALISM, THOMPSON SAYS

Boston, Mass., Oct. 24.—The American nation is plunging into an abyss of communism, Floyd Eugene Thompson, chief justice of the supreme court of Illinois, said tonight in an address before the Associated Industries of Massachusetts in which he denounced "governmental paternalism."

"American business is being broken by government intermeddling and the citizen is constantly reminded of his ever ready jailer," he said. "Government job holders are stepping on each others' heels and now jobs are being created daily."

Attacking what he termed the present "lawmaking craze," he said: "The surest remedy is to enforce strictly all laws, and an outraged people will immediately rise up in righteous rebellion and bring about a prompt repeal of existing paternalistic legislation."

CARLSON JURY PICKED; START EVIDENCE TODAY

The trial of George E. Carlson, for the commission of gas and electricity, and five co-defendants, charged with grafting $250,000 from the city during the Thompson-Lundin reign, will start this morning before a jury in Judge Joseph B. David's court. Selection of the jury was completed late yesterday. It is the first of the city graft cases to be tried.

Special Assistant Attorney General Theobald Dobyns will outline the charges which the state expects to prove.

These Are Defendants.

In addition to Carlson the defendants are Arthur F. Henderson, president of the Electrical Materials company; Anthony L. Harth, his bookkeeper; Fred A. Duggett, assistant superintendent of construction under Carlson; Fred Nelson, a former city storekeeper.

Thomas Pringle formerly city construction foreman. They were indicted by the special grand jury investigating city hall graft last May. The evidence, it was said, was that the defendants conspired to obtain money from the city for street lamps and other electrical supplies which were never delivered. It was claimed that on one order to the Henderson firm only $40,000 worth of supplies was delivered, for which $145,000 was collected, and that on another order of $65,000 the city received but $15,000 worth of supplies.

List of the Jurors.

Following is the jury as completed yesterday:

GEORGE A. ROBERTS, 29, 4547 Emerald avenue, a musician.

RICHARD J. BURROWS, 40, 216 Myrtle street, Winnetka, salesman for Carson, Pika, Scott & Co.

WILLIAM A. WARNECK, 44, 835 North Sacramento boulevard, superintendent of the Garden City Gas company.

JEREMIAH COTTER, 33, 2336 Oxford street, gold leaf manufacturer.

EDWARD J. KARP, 27, 2206 Roscoe street, printer.

CHARLES W. FREUDENBERG, 48, 2605 West Huron street, manager.

RAYMOND B. REYNOLDS, 29, 5625 Princeton avenue, clerk.

ALBERT F. KISER, 35, 1730 South Ashland avenue, salesman.

VICTOR M. NYMAN, 30, 1050 Wellington street, extract manufacturer.

MORRIS H. RUCKENSTEIN, 31, 2336 Duany street, checker.

GEORGE J. BAKER, 20, 2418 Madison street, clerk.

EDWARD J. CHERRY, 22, 2115 West Chicago street, accountant.

Charges by Albert Fink, attorney for Carlson, that Charles Koeppe, a battler, newly placed in charge of the jury, was friendly to Attorney General Brundage, blew up in smoke when Koeppe was questioned by Fink and Judge David. "Rumors" that Koeppe had been working on the Lundin case and was especially selected to take charge of this jury were found to be baseless.

PERSHING WILL SEE IF GRAVES ARE NEGLECTED

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24.—(Special.)—Inspection of American cemeteries in France and the graves registration service is the only official business which Gen. John J. Pershing will undertake during his visit abroad. It was stated by Secretary of War Weeks today. Though the general had intended to make his visit purely one of pleasure and personal business, recent criticism of the condition of American cemeteries caused Secretary Weeks to ask Gen. Pershing to make a personal inspection and report.

TROOPS BATTLE BANDIT ATTACK ON CHINA TRAIN

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

(Chicago Tribune Foreign Press Service.)

PEKING, Oct. 24.—Bandits seeking to create a diversion of troops in western Honan province who are seeking to rescue Misses Sharp and Darroch, British missionaries held captive since Sept. 23, attacked a through Peking train from Hankow at a station forty miles south of Changchow station on Monday afternoon.

The train was riddled with bullets, but no passengers were hurt. The train was backed sixteen miles to Hanchowfu, where Augustana synod mission workers under Gustav Carlberg and Nels Nelson of Greenville, Neb., and Anna Olson of Greenville, Ill., gave relief to the foreigners aboard.

Battle With Troops.

Traffic was suspended owing to a battle between the troops and bandits. The train, which was due in Peking on Tuesday night, has not yet resumed. Trains going to Hankow are held at Changchow.

The outbreak is the worst since the Manchurian affair, better the third serious bandit case involving foreigners within a year within 150 miles of Gen. Wu Pei Fu's camp at Loyang.

Bandits raided the town of Hanchow, where a train was standing, inflicting several casualties and carrying off the station master and his family among others. The outlaws fled towards the west, being pursued by troops under Gen. Chin Yunso from Changchow.

Fears Killing of Women.

Gen. Wu Pei Fu, when a British consul demanded the rescue of the Misses Sharp and Darroch, said that an attack would probably mean their death, but he directed that troops be sent against the bandits, since the outlaws' demands were excessive. Missionaries in western Honan again are assembling along the railways, while representatives of the Standard Oil company of New York and other firms are leaving the interior.

Jostling Passengers Expensive.

Henry Fish and Max Gold, said to have been in the train, were found $25 for "jostling" passengers on the rear platform of a street car.

By ANZIA YEZIERSKA

Author of "Hungry Hearts," "Solos of the Tenements"

ON THIS NEW collection of short stories, Anzia Yezierska, a true master of the realistic in romance, has portrayed the pathos and humor of immigrant life in the raw. To most of us, "greenhorn" immigrants are perhaps both mysteries and curiosities, people to be pitied, wondered at, and cursed as they pass through our ports into this land of promise—wistful, frightened, eager, expectant. This new book of fiction reveals their inner selves, depicts their longings, their loves, their tragedies. A book you'll not soon forget.

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN
WHEN TO SELL THOSE PIGS

IV Push Pull Stuff for Early Spring Market—By John M. Brown

THE COUNTRY GENTLEMAN
WHERE I'D PLANT MY ORCHARD

Where New York for Me—By Stuart O. Blythe

Perfecting the balance

Seventy million bushels of potatoes rotted in the ground, undug last year. Yet only a normal number of bushels reached the market, at prices practically ruinous to the individual grower.

What broke the market? Why did the market break?

Those undug potatoes; they broke the market—and the grower. Rumors came to the farmer that there was a general overproduction of potatoes. He rushed to dig his own and to get them to the market before the other fellow. Thousands on thousands of "other fellows" did the same. The market sagged heavily under this enormous load. Prices broke so, it didn't pay to dig the rest—70,000,000 bushels that never reached market.

Can you imagine a manufacturer throwing his goods in the river because he couldn't sell them? So long as the farmer was blind to the fundamentals of merchandising and selling that make for orderly distribution of products, at prices fair to all, he played a losing game. Someone else profited from his labor. Absorbed with the problems of production, he has been too willing to leave to others the mysteries of distribution.

But the mists which obscured for him the need for such knowledge are clearing away. The Country Gentleman is helping him to see his way. As the others drilled him faithfully in practical production principles, The Country Gentleman first made clear to him the need of modern merchandising methods—of better grading, co-operative action, and orderly supply.

The farmers who read The Country Gentleman see on both sides of their fences. They are the farmers who are making money. The Country Gentleman is helping to make farming pay the farmer.

Fifty lawyers were present today in the Supreme court when motions in the accounting of Jay Gould's estate by his son, the late George Jay Gould,

Mr. Wallace touched upon the situation which confronts Guinivere Sinclair Gould, George J. Gould's widow.

and her three children as a result of the claim that $20,000,000 was due to the Jay Gould estate from George J. Gould.

"If it can be held that the action instituted by Mr. Gould still lives," he said, "and that the claims made against him by other beneficiaries of the Jay Gould estate are valid, then, with the executors substituted as plaintiffs, judgment can be taken which would absorb all of the assets of the estate of the late George J. Gould."

The attorney did not mention the Gould widow or her children, but the beneficiaries of the George J. Gould estate only. The bequest to Mrs. Gould was the income on $4,000,000 for Mogadore Ties in Favor.

NEW YORK.—(Special Correspondent.)—Mogadore ties are among the season's favorites. They have been featured in many window displays this autumn, and have been seen around many necks. Mogadore ties, like the tie of the past, are made of silk, and are so called because of the particular weave of silk used in making them. The peculiarity of the material is a heavy rib, which is due to a cotton warp in the weaving. These ties are usually striped in various ways.

We have seen them in all sorts of colorings, and in both four in hand and bow style. The patterns that we saw were the same for four in hand and bow. Some of the most attractive colorings in these ties were as follows:

Wide stripes of gray and navy blue, with narrow stripes of red bordered with white. Some were of reds and blues mixed in various sized stripes. Dark brown and golden brown in wide stripes, with blue and white narrow stripes alternating with them. Wide blue and tan stripes, with narrow yellow stripes breaking them up. The same appeared with red instead of yellow stripes. Either the wide stripes with either a brown or a blue spot. Black and tan wide stripes were also combined with either yellow or red narrow stripes. Another color scheme consisted of maroon and navy blue stripes at intervals. Gray and buff were attractively used together in one of these mogadore ties.

Some other good looking colorings that we have seen lately presented an extremely rich appearance. They were of a heavy moiré silk, of mottled pattern, in several mixed colors. The color schemes were of rich dark colors, such as deep lavender, green and black, in one case, and maroon, black and gray in another. Others were blue and black in a mottled arrangement, lavender gray and black, and blue tan and black.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

POY: WHAT TO DO IN ORDER
At the moment of receiving your letter I was interrupted by a young woman acquaintance who told me how she turned a yellow and dejected looking face into what I insisted upon calling a perfect joy. And I think her case is like yours. She was a business girl and, consequently, did little exercise. One day a co-worker told her she looked faded and gone. That night she started in to cold cream her face and neck, leaving a lot of cream on. Then she got into a bathing suit and a sweater, and did my set of "Youth Preserver" exercises, thereby working up a good perspiration which sent the cream penetrating the depths of the pores. She had ready a tub of fairly hot water, but before hopping in she wiped off the surplus cream; then she took a good hot bath and went to bed. In the morning she got up early, put on bathing suit and sweater, did the exercises, took a warm bath, not hot, followed by a cold shower. Before two weeks were over she

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Notary Celery.

We need to have many food appreciations for reasons which can hardly be given without seeming "preachy." We cook have to be circumstantial, but the literary folk may, and do, write dynamically of food.

By the way, you know, people like to be called human dynamite, but I can imagine some one's objecting to the term dynamite writing, a term right out of the dull old rhetoric. Forgetting that, let us say that A. M. Mine writes gaily and often and dynamically of food, just as he writes plays like "The Dover Road" and "Mr. Finn." And food, being so large a part of the setting of life, he has to use it often.

In an essay he begins: "Last night the waiter put the celery on with the cheese, and I knew that summer was indeed dead. There is a crispness about celery that is of the essence of October. It is as fresh and clean as a rainy day after a spell of heat. It crackles pleasantly in the mouth. Moreover, it is excellent, I am told, for the complexion. One is always hearing of things that are good for the complexion, but there is no doubt that celery stands high on the list."

And then, after telling how delicious are the tender shoots unfolded layer by layer, of what a whiteness and sweetness is the inner one, and how suitable for the end of a meal, he says: "Yes, it should be eaten alone, for it is the only food which one wants to hear one's self eat. Besides, in company one may have to consider the wants of others."

And he tells of having saved the sweetest and tenderest bits for the last, tantalizing himself pleasantly with the thought of them, and then a traveler at an inn, where the cheese was for the table, reached over and took those sweet, crisp and hoarded bits—apologizing later.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Two small boys who had attended a football game where the score was 0 to 6 were wrangling over the merits of the team for which they had rooted. Said one, "Well, your team didn't get nothing!"

To which the other youngster retorted, "Well, neither did yours."

"Anyways," said the other, leathery to concede defeat, "it was nothing to nothing in our favor."

When I invited Marcella to come and bring her baby sister for lunch, she accepted for herself but excused her baby sister in this manner: "It won't do any good for Sis to come 'cause she don't eat tooth food yet." M. O.

Then She Came To.

I had lived in a small town all my life. Of course, we were all well acquainted with one another.

The other day in a large city I was expecting to meet my cousin on a downtown corner.

After waiting quite a while I walked up to a policeman and said: "Have you seen my cousin anywhere around here?"

He said: "No, miss; I do not know your cousin."

I then realized that I was in a big city. And you can imagine my embarrassment.

Eggs Were Everywhere.

When I go out to gather eggs I have a habit of putting them in my pockets. On this occasion I forgot to take the eggs out of my pocket. When I entered I found it was quite warm, so I took my coat off and laid it over the back of the seat. The hymn was announced and I leaned back in my seat. Crack, crack, and then the eggs started to run, for I had leaned against them. All eyes were turned to me! Amid smiles and titters I bore my dripping coat out of the church and home.

Another Batik Ball to Be Planned Today at Meeting in Carino

Plans are in the making for another batik ball, to be given Friday evening, Nov. 30, in the ballroom of the Carino Hotel. The Association of Artists and Industries of the City of Chicago is sponsoring the ball. It is hoped that the second will be as successful as the first. There is to be a meeting this afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Carino to name a committee on arrangements and to complete plans. William N. Pelouse is president of the association, and the vice presidents are MacVeggs Benjamin, F. Affleck and Oliver Bennett Grover. The association is desiring to establish an industrial art school in Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Leander Hamilton McCormick and Mr. and Mrs. Leander J. McCormick will give a dance at their residence, 631 Rush street, on Tuesday, Nov. 21, for Mr. and Mrs. William H. McCormick, who will arrive in Chicago on their wedding trip shortly before that date. The senior Mrs. McCormick and her daughters-in-law will be at the dance. Mitchell D. Folansbee will give for their daughter, Eleanor, born Nov. 11, 1932, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Paepcke's home for Miss Janet Fairbank and Miss Margaret Field at the Casino.

Anything and everything that can be used in the home decoration will be on sale today at the White Elephant bazaar, 27 East Ohio street. Mrs. George A. McKinnock and Mrs. D. Mark Cummings will be in charge.

Mrs. Frank H. Connor will give a luncheon at 5545 Woodlawn avenue this morning at 10:30 o'clock for the first of six talks on current events by Mrs. E. S. Adams and Miss Julie R. Adams.

The first of a series of five talks on "Literary Backgrounds in Italy," by Miss Clara E. Laughlin, will be given this morning at 11 o'clock at the Grace McKee studios in the Arts Building.

Mrs. Levering Moore, president of the U. S. Daughters of 1812, State of Illinois, will entertain the organization at luncheon today at her residence in Glenview.

Mrs. Urie Atkinson, Miss Margaret Keeley, Miss Mary Wegg, and Mrs. Philip Brooks Maher will usher at the first of a series of four lectures on "How to Judge a Play" by Theodore B. Hinkley to be given this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, 1600 Lake Shore drive, before the Chicago Club. Tickets may be obtained at the door.

Mrs. Julia Barrett Rubie will give a tea today at 438 o'clock at the residence of her mother, Mr. Samuel E. Barrett of 1412 Lake Shore drive, for Mrs. Margaret Sanger.

Adolph Bolm and the ballet from the Chicago Civic Opera company will give a program this evening at the South Shore Country club. Attendance is restricted to members. After the ballet there will be general dancing. The annual ball at the club will be given next Wednesday night and because of this special occasion the usual Thursday evening party will be omitted next week.

The College club is giving a dinner tonight for President and Mrs. Ernest D. Burton of the University of Chicago. President Burton will speak at 8 o'clock. Miss Josephine Allen and John O. Jordan will be hostesses.

Tomorrow from 4 to 5:30 o'clock at the club there will be a tea under the auspices of the membership committee for the club of 1933 of the university. Miss Geraldine R. Lermitt will speak on "The New Vacation for Women." At 5:30 o'clock, Miss Genevieve Corbett and Miss Elizabeth Maltman will be hostesses.

The artists of the Three Studios will attend in a group the costume ball to be given Saturday night by the artists of the 17th street studios and the south side artists will attend in a group the Halloween party to be given at 514 East Ohio street by the Three Studios holding artists next Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell S. Clark of 574 Kimbark avenue, will depart tomorrow for Gouverneur, N. Y., to attend the wedding on Monday of their son, Dunlap C. Clark, and Miss Elizabeth McFall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McFall, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman A. Walton of 5747 Woodlawn avenue, will depart on Sunday for Gouverneur for the wedding. Miss McFall is a niece of Mrs. Walton, Mr. and Mrs. Clark will be at home after Dec. 15 at 5529 University avenue.

Dr. and Mrs. James Herbert Mitchell of 11 Scott street are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a daughter last Monday at the Augustana hospital. Mrs. Mitchell is the former Miss Marion Strobel.

FEDERAL CREDIT SYSTEM LOANS NOW $20,000,000

BY SCRUTATOR.

The system of federal intermediate credit banks established by the agricultural credit act of this year is active and working. Loans direct to co-operators are being made. The system is active and working. Loans direct to co-operators are being made. The system is active and working. Loans direct to co-operators are being made.

According to Martin L. Curry, member of the farm loan board and ex-officio member of the new intermediate credit system, the new institutions have received financial service to 250,000 members of cooperative marketing associations and have advanced commitments aggregating $15,000,000.

So far, the credit banks have called upon the treasury for only $20,000,000, and have determined upon a policy of postponing as long as possible another call upon the government. It is planned first to acquire the investing position with the new securities and to create a permanent market for them. It is planned to hold the remaining $40,000,000 available from the treasury in reserve for emergencies.

The credit banks have offered for sale two issues of $10,000,000 each at 4 1/2 per cent, maturing in six months. The debentures offered were bought up by about twenty banks.

Essentially the new system is planned to render a permanent service in financing agricultural production similar to the temporary service rendered by the revived War Finance corporation in the period of depression.

"Addressing the Nebraska Bankers' association, Mr. Curry says: 'It is not to be expected that any system of credit can solve all the problems which agricultural producers face. It is not to be expected that any system of credit can solve all the problems which agricultural producers face. It is not to be expected that any system of credit can solve all the problems which agricultural producers face.'

There is nothing unusual or revolutionary about the intermediate credit banks. They will take longer term paper, but not longer term paper than is eligible with the federal reserve system. "We are determined to preserve all the elements of good banking, which are essential to the permanence of any financial system. No system has been or can be devised for the extension of credit to any class without proper provision for security and maturity."

"We court your unprejudiced consideration of this new system, which completes the nation's financial machinery. It is sound in principle, and it will succeed because it is founded upon the business and banking practices which have made existing financial systems successful."

"It is unquestionably to be a permanent addition to our financial structure. It will be an instrument of competition for you, as an institution of great service to the farmers and to the nation. It will be made an agency of great service to the farmers and to the nation. It will be made an agency of great service to the farmers and to the nation."

"The most encouraging sign in recent months is the broadening of the spirit of cooperation. In past years the spirit of cooperation has been the spirit of cooperation. In past years the spirit of cooperation has been the spirit of cooperation. In past years the spirit of cooperation has been the spirit of cooperation."

Little fault can be found with the effort to give the farmer the chance to borrow money for periods which correspond to the actual length of his productive operations, something that the manufacturer and merchant, of course, already enjoyed. In so far as the new legislation has carried out that intention, or can carry it out, it will meet with little criticism. But, like other institutions, including commercial banks, which had their long period of trial and error, the new rural credit institutions will in the end be justified in the light of experience or amended because of the lessons learned that way."

Even the farm loan banks, which began the actual lending of money six years ago, cannot yet be said to have passed entirely the experimental stage. Their record of trial and error, the new rural credit institutions demonstrate that they not only can lend money but stimulate farm development and offer incentive to improvement, as well as repayment, they can be pronounced permanent in form.

ACT TO SPEED VAST PROJECTS ALL OVER CITY

Many Public Bodies Get Busy at Once.

Details of council local transportation committee's orders for seventeen miles of surface car line extensions within the city limits are printed on page 6.

Projects for a vast series of public improvements, including new railroad terminal facilities, opened traffic arteries out of the loop, broadened highways, and numerous street openings, widening, and extensions were set in motion at meetings of city officials, sanitary district trustees, and park boards yesterday.

Action was taken to hasten the straightening of the river from Harrison to 18th street, with a view to opening Franklin, Wells, and Market streets from the loop out to the south side.

The long delayed Roosevelt road bridge will be completed.

Work on the so-called Santa Fe fruit terminal at 19th street and Archer avenue may proceed.

Relocation of passenger and freight facilities of railroads now using the Polk street, La Salle street and Grand Central stations in a consolidated station project will ultimately result.

New Road on Canal Right of Way. Sanitary district trustees announced that contracts for the construction of McCormick road from Devon avenue, Chicago, to West Railroad avenue, Evanston, along the north shore channel right of way, will be awarded on Nov. 1.

Kimball avenue, to connect territory served by the new McCormick road with the west park boulevard system, will be cut through to Devon avenue from Peterson avenue as a 100 foot boulevard and widened from 44 feet to 66 feet from Lawrence avenue to Peterson avenue.

Movement started to widen Milwaukee avenue, now 66 feet wide, to 100 feet from Edmunds street to the north-west city limits.

Sheridan road is to be widened from Loyola avenue to Rogers avenue.

Other improvements discussed by the various official bodies were:

Widening of Sheridan road from Grace street to Foster avenue.

Widening Lake Shore drive between Oak street and North avenue.

Extension of Cottage Grove avenue from 115th street to 130th street as a result of the Pullman railroad company's offer to cede the necessary right of way.

Mayor for a Showdown. A showdown in the seemingly endless discussion of the river straightening plan was demanded by interested parties in the decision of Mayor Dever's terminal commission to alter the river's course, cut through the loop streets, either by negotiation or by special assessment proceedings, assessing cost against the railroad property.

Offers from the railroads to finance the project themselves as an escape from heavy assessments are expected as an immediate result of the city's ultimatum, according to Commissioner of Public Works Sprague. Private enterprise, he declared, could outstrip the city in speedy completion of the project and at much less cost. Constructed by the railroads, the finished improvement will cost about $30,000,000, he estimated.

Opening of Franklin, Wells, and Market streets to the south side long has been urged as a partial solution of the loop congestion problem, and the proposed Santa Fe fruit terminal, also contingent on the straightening of the river, is hailed as the new location of South Water street merchant's forced out of their present sites by the impending widening and double decking of South Water street.

34 Foot Concrete Way. McCormick road, which probably will be completed by Oct. 1, 1925, is to be of concrete, fifty-four feet wide, and about four and one-half miles long. Thirteen bids for its construction were received and opened by the sanitary district trustees yesterday. The lowest was that of the R. F. Conway company. It was for $191,130. The Warner Construction company was next with a bid of $201,528.

That special assessment rolls for the widening of Milwaukee avenue have been prepared was learned just as new suggestions for relief of traffic congestion on that thoroughfare were offered by Charles H. Wacker, chairman of the Chicago Plan commission.

Construction of a second story level roadway above Avondale avenue, paralleling Milwaukee avenue on the westward, from Ashland avenue to Jackson street, was also discussed.
